

Eloro Resources Accepted into the US Defense Industrial Base Consortium

We are pleased to announce that Eloro Resources Ltd. has been selected to join the U.S. Defense Industrial Base Consortium (DIBC) — a U.S. Department of Defense-supported initiative focused on strengthening collaboration across industry, academia, and government to advance solutions aligned with U.S. and allied national security priorities.

Participation in the DIBC underscores Eloro's commitment to responsible resource development and its potential role in supporting secure, resilient supply chains for critical and strategic materials.

“Being selected to participate in the Defense Industrial Base Consortium is an important milestone for Eloro,” said Tom Larsen. “It reflects the growing recognition of the strategic importance of mineral security and the need for trusted partners to help support long-term national and allied security objectives.”

Eloro looks forward to contributing its technical expertise and advancing collaborative solutions that support defense, economic resilience, and strategic supply chain integrity.
